Artist Statement

The life experiences of each passing year dramatically influence and change my artwork. The people, places, and events around me effect the thoughts and ideas that comprise my works. I try to express my own feelings through my creations so that they hold more weight on the audience that views them. My goals are to inspire as well as cause an emotional reaction every time someone views a piece that I have created.

All of my work from prints to screen-based, such as web design and interactive pieces, all created using a computer. Through the tools available in programs such as Adobe Photoshop and Macromedia Flash MX, I convey my thoughts and emotions to the viewer. Since my work is inspired by life, it addresses topics that people can relate to. If they don’t relate directly, hopefully I can bring them out of the dark and help them realize things that are important in life.

To date my artwork has covered topics ranging from child birth, relationships, and clinical depression. While most of these topics that I have covered are rather bleak, my works have been slowly transforming. I don’t want people to only think of the bad things in life, I merely want them to realize that they exist. However, there are also many good things in life that I hope to convey in my future works. I want my art to change peoples’ lives. I want them to see the world in a different light so that new things are visible and others are left in the shadows.
